Strategic Plan 2020-2024-Brian Bennion

Brian Bennion highlights some of the accomplishments and goals the health department met with the 2014-2019 Strategic Plan and presents an updated plan with goals outlined for the next five years. He welcomes feedback from board members and asks for support and approval to move forward in carrying out this Plan. Neil Garner says the layout and format is easy to follow along with the ability to adjust as needed. He asks board members to get with him or Brian if they would like education or more information on any issues. A MOTION is made by Ken Johnson and SECONDED by Donna Chapman to accept and approve the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan. The MOTION passes unanimously.

Building and Parking Agreement-Chris Crockett

Chris Crockett explains the organization of the health department as an interlocal entity between Weber County and Morgan County and governed by the Utah Interlocal Cooperation Act. The health department has asked that a document be provided showing an agreement with Weber County on the ownership of the health department buildings and parking. The main building of the health department as well as the health department annex are currently titled in Weber County’s name. To ensure health department operation within these buildings extends into the future and to also inform all upcoming board members on how the health department is structured, a document entailing what would be is requested. He says it will be basically writing down what the health department is already doing and envisions this document to appear as a lease type agreement while the buildings remain in the county’s name. Part of this agreement would be that the health department continues paying off the general bond until it expires in 2024 and that insurance, operation, and maintenance costs are paid with health department funds and the health department would make use of the $272,000 and not the county with a provision of $1 per year lease payment. He asks that this agreement also cover the employees and other services the county provides so there is just one document. Questions are answered on the completion of the second floor of the annex building. There is further discussion on the Weber Center parking structure and the lot the health department purchased for parking fleet vehicles. He plans to ask another Weber County attorney to examine the agreement once drafted to ensure the document is fair to both parties. He will send out drafts of the document for review and will bring the final document to the March Board of Health meeting.
Director’s Report-Brian Bennion

Brian Bennion asks Amy Carter and Jesse Bush to each report on current issues. Amy Carter reports on two pediatric influenza associated deaths in Weber County this past week and updates board members on the novel coronavirus outbreak in China. Flu vaccines are still available in our clinic. Jesse Bush informs board members that the U of U invited OgdenCAN to host a buprenorphine waiver training for local providers. It is scheduled for Thursday, April 16 at the Weber State University Community Education Center. This is free but an RSVP is required. He asks board members to share with their networks, especially medical provider networks. This year the downtown Ogden area has the third highest opioid overdose deaths in the state which is down from second last year. Brian Bennion updates board members on legislative bills that the Utah Association of Local Health Departments (UALHD) are watching. H.B. 37 proposes an excise tax on e-cigarette devices and products that would be similar to tobacco products. UALHD will also work with the legislature to change the legal age to buy products to 21 to meet new federal laws. H.B. 88 proposes testing for lead in water fountains in school and child care centers. The Utah Division of Environmental Quality received a grant from Environmental Protection Agency for $400,000 to help these facilities with this effort. H.B. 134 proposes changes to raw milk manufacturing and distribution. Roland Haslam questions if the legislature is addressing the effect changing the legal age to buy tobacco products is having on that population. Brian Bennion says they are aware of it and that was the reason the state opted to phase it in over time. But the federal government has acted, it is now the law of the land, and the state cannot be less restrictive. As a health department, cessation classes are available and retail enforcement is not being done at this time. Board member Karen Harrop has sent notification to Brian Bennion and Chair Garner that her assignments at Ogden School District have broadened and she will no longer be serving on our Board. She has been a great resource to the Board in representing the schools and will be missed.

Chair’s Report-Neil Garner

Neil Garner reports that he has been reappointed by the Ogden City Council to remain on the Board and looks forward to continuing to serve. He mentions that he participated in the Point-in-Time Count which is an annual count of Utah’s homeless population. Working with Weber Human Services, many people were contacted with over 50 people completing surveys. They were very grateful for supplies given as well as getting them into community resources that may help them. He thanks all who participated.

Chris Crockett brings a message from former board member, Mayor Lee Dickemore, expressing his appreciation for the opportunity to serve on the Board of Health. He says it was an incredible experience being able to work together so well as a Board and is excited for Mayor Call to serve.
